Tom Daley launches Pride collection on his Made With Love fashion label with 100% of profits going to the Rainbow Railroad charity.

In the early days of the pandemic in 2020, Tom Daley, unable to train for the Olympics, picked up knitting as a hobby from the suggestion of his husband as a way to get creative, keep busy and to act as a form of mindfulness.

At the Olympics in August 2021, photos of Tom knitting in the stands at the Tokyo Olympics circulated the Globe, gaining as much attention as his emotional gold medal win. Following that in November 2021, Tom Daley launched his fashion label Made With Love.

A cause close to Tom's heart, Rainbow Railroad are providing essential assistance to the LGBTQ+ community around the world. While the rights of LGBTQ+ people are advancing in certain countries, there are 11 countries where homosexuality is punishable by death and 71 countries where homosexuality is illegal - half of these are in the Commonwealth.

Applauded by media outlets around the world from Vogue Italia to Elle Japan, the initial 15 piece knitting kit collection allowed people to knit Tom's designs, whether they were an experienced knitter or just starting out. Since then, the collection has evolved, with ready to wear pieces being added to the range, and now the Pride collection which launches today.

'100% of all profits of this Pride collection go to Rainbow Railroad. I'm grateful to live in a country where I don't have to fear for my life. But that's not the same for our LGBTQI+ family around the world who face violence and oppression simply because of who they are.'

As an athlete, I've visited countries where it's illegal to be me, but protected by the international rules for competing athletes. Every time I go, I think about people like me in that country that either can't live authentically or are at danger because they are.

That's why I wanted to launch a Pride collection where every penny of the profits go to Rainbow Railroad. This incredible charity helps people in our community escape state-sponsored violence and get them to safety. It's awful that they're even needed, but I'm glad they're there doing incredible work.' - Tom Daley

FOX & WOLF

EST. 2019

Ryan Fox and Scott Wolf are the founders and Creative Directors of FOX & WOLF.

They have been crafting aromatic experiences since 2015. But that's not where this story really begins...

It begins with a passion for travel and island-hopping around the world. And, an unconditional love of aromatics.

Both Ryan and Scott finally settled roots in eastern Spain, and opened up a retreat. A place of reflection and calm. Nestled in the farmland of the Vega Baja, with views of the Hondon mountains and hills. Here they offered their guests an intimate retreat surrounded, by handmade aromatic products to use during their stay. And so this really is where the story begins.

After many years of testing and creating their products and brand, they launched their company in 2019.

The products had to fit within their vegan ethos and it was important to use high quality ingredients, which had not been tested on animals.

They are both fascinated by the mix of masculine and feminine design, combined with intense layered aromas.

Question: WHAT DO WORDS LIKE 'COLD THROW' AND 'HOT THROW' MEAN?

This is referring to the amount of fragrance you can smell from a candle before it's been lit and during. All Fox & Wolf candles have been very carefully balanced with our secret blends of fragrance oils. We tend to use around 10% in our candles and up to 20% in our reed diffusers, which is the maximum you can use in these products. So our products tend to be packed full of aroma.

Question: ARE YOUR PRODUCTS VEGAN FRIENDLY?

All of our products are as vegan friendly as possible. And the reason we are wording it like this is because sometimes manufacturers are not particularly forth coming with open information about some of their processes.

A prime example is the paint used on candle glass. But, be rest assured, that here at Fox & Wolf we make sure our wax, bases, perfume oils, wicks, labels and external packaging are all vegan friendly meaning there is no animal derived ingredients used in them. We have even insisted that our ingredients have had no animal testing during it's testing or production.

Ascentant Accountancy are an Accountancy practice and Business Consultancy based in Derby.

The business started life in a caravan in Staffordshire, when founder, Kevin Drew relocated from London to seek a quieter life away from London and the scene.

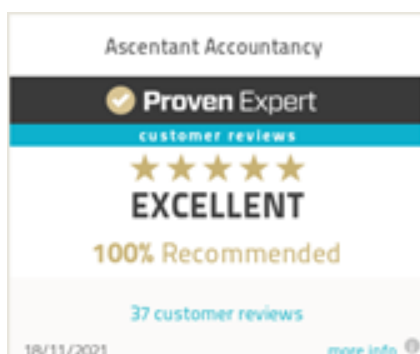

Kevin, who identifies as a gay man quickly begun to grow the business which specialises in supporting the Legal and Creative sectors and moving into larger premises and taking on employees.

Kevin said "Following my career in London, I had difficulties coming out in the workplace and being myself, working in law firms, some having very traditional values and views. With no role models to look up to or diversity or inclusion policies, it was difficult to be myself in the workplace, especially progressing in my career.

When I started my own business, it was important that it was a place that I could be myself and open with my employees, but also to foster an inclusive and respectful environment for others to work in to include sexual orientation, race, religion and sex.

Employing apprentices, it was important to ensure that my business was a safe and inclusive space that was respectful of others. As a result of this, Ascentant Accountancy support Derby LGBT through Amazon Smile and Easyfundraising. We wrote a blog post celebrating LGBT History month on Diversity in the workplace.

This year we decided to sponsor Derby Pride to really show our commitment to Diversity to the local community and to show everybody that they should be able to be themselves whether at work, at home or anywhere else!"

Gay Lifestyle Blog

with an insight into our lives as a gay couple

QUEERDAZE

Queerdaze is a very unique Blog. When you take a look at it, I am sure you'll agree. The Blog is written by my husband and I who are in an age gap relationship. It is a personal Blog about our lives together.

Despite being about us, most people have let us know there is quite a bit that resonates with them.

Queerdaze is over a year old now so you have a lot of catching up to do. By the time you are up to speed you will probably think of us as old friends or bad influences.

Before we were together we did have lives apart. I am about 30 years older than Aaron so we grew up in very different times. You will see how we both grew up, came out, navigated the world of sex, Grindr and were lucky enough to meet each other.

Most importantly to us, you will see how we fell in love, became engaged, got married and are in the midst of building a new life together. You will see both the highs and lows.

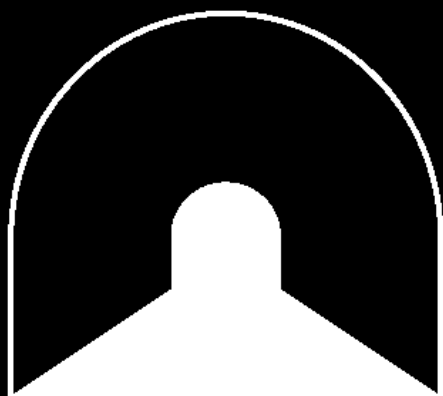

On Queerdaze you will also find our opinions on many things from monogamy to porn. In addition we also have an entertainment category where we are constantly trying to clue you into good books to read, movies to see and TV shows to watch. Lastly don't forget to take a look at our travel section for some inspiration on where to take your next vacation and our food section if you need a few ideas on what to cook for dinner.

If you've had a long or trying day watch one of our Tik Tok's for a good laugh before you call it a night. Let us know what you think. We'd love to hear from you.

RAINBOW RAILROAD

www.rainbowrailroad.org

A Message From the Executive Director

Same-sex intimacy is illegal in 69 countries around the world; and in 14 countries, transgender peoples' gender identity and expression are criminalized.

If you've been following our work, you've probably heard us mention these statistics or similar ones.

But what do they actually mean for the millions of LGBTQI+ people living in countries that, in some measure, criminalize their very existence? And more importantly, what do they mean for Rainbow Railroad and those who come to us for help?

One of the questions I'm most frequently asked is, "how do we choose who we help?" It's a good question that depends on numerous factors. However, central to the question is making sure we have rigorous methods to identify, track and respond to those who come to us for help so we can make crucial decisions with limited resources. This has provided Rainbow Railroad with something desperately lacking in understanding the state of global LGBTQI+ persecution — data.

This year, thanks to your ongoing support, I'm pleased to share more details about the types of persecution LGBTQI+ people face globally, through the limited lense of those who reach out to us for help.

To find out more about what Kimahli Powell has to say please go to the website by clicking on our logo or any of the photos in this article.

Forced marriage, also known as “marriage under duress,” is a human rights abuse whereby family members employ emotional, physical and financial abuse tactics to coerce individuals into a marriage against their consent.

Approximately 12 million girls are married against their will each year, and there are currently over 650 million women and girls who were forcibly married as children. Due to the sheer scale of the problem, marriage under duress is often exclusively associated with children and the forced marriage of young girls to adult men, but the practice is also used to target LGBTQI+ people and force them into heterosexual-appearing unions.

Forced marriage is a global phenomenon with instances reported in every region. However, in 2020, we received the most number of reports of forced marriage among LGBTQI+ people from the Middle East / North Africa. This was followed by South-Central Asia and Sub-Saharan Africa.

The Prevalence of Forced Marriage by Gender (105 instances out of 4009 Safety Concerns)

Cisgender Women 10.6% - Transgender Men 3.8% - Cisgender Men 2.8%

One transgender woman also reported experiencing marriage under duress.

One transgender nonconforming person also reported experiencing marriage under duress.

The Global Persecution of LGBTQI+ People

Homophobia, transphobia, lesbophobia and biphobia are present in some form or degree in every country of the world, yet the situation varies widely from country to country and from region to region.

According to the International Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Trans and Intersex Association (ILGA), as of December 2020, at least 69 United Nations member states currently criminalize homosexuality. Additionally, same-sex intimacy is legally punishable by death in six countries. Regionally speaking, the majority of states in Africa and Asia criminalize LGBTQI+ people. The Caribbean is another area of concern, with eight states doing so.<sup>3</sup>In some cases, the law is quite explicit, while others use vague charges like “acts against nature”, “indecentcy” and “immoral acts.”

Legal discrimination against trans persons is also widespread across the globe. Thirteen countries criminalize trans people through what are known as “anti-cross-dressing laws,” which target people who dress in clothes of their apparent opposite sex. States often persecute trans, gender non-conforming and sex variant people through selective interpretations and enforcement of vague “morality”-related offences.

Rainbow Railroad provides additional support to people facing violence through four additional programs, outlined below.

1: Lifesaving support to individuals in imminent danger: A lack of basic needs is a common theme among LGBTQI+ people facing persecution. Through this program, we provide life-saving financial and other help to people in imminent danger with no on-the-ground support system.

2: Direct support of LGBTQI+ partner organizations: We support informal and formal partner organizations around the world that defend the human rights of LGBTQI+ people. These organizations provide direct support to LGBTQI+ people, and assist us in identifying people in need of relocation.

3: Emergency responses to crackdowns on LGBTQI+ people: The sad reality is that governments around the world often undertake targeted anti-LGBTQI+ crackdowns. Recent examples include Chechnya in 2017, Egypt in 2019 and Ghana in 2021. We respond to these emergencies by supporting local human rights defenders on the ground and, where possible, assist in emergency relocation efforts.

4: Essential information to LGBTQI+ people at risk: We provide information and referral services to those at immediate risk of violence and persecution. Much of this work takes place informally.

WALK WITH US

Liverpool Leathermen is a not-for-profit organisation that was set up by me Stuart Court on the 5th December 2022 to fill a huge gap in the Liverpool LGBTQ+ scene. I identify as a Leatherman/Leather Cowboy and Pup .

I run events and social meet ups were people who live in Liverpool or are from the North West of England can meet, come together in a fun and safe space.

Leather is something I believe not only looks great but should be shown off in all its glory.

The definition of a Leatherman for those who don't know is such a diverse subculture and denotes practices and styles of dress organised around activities that involve leather garments, such as leather jackets, vests, boots, caps, harnesses, or other items.

Wearing leather garments is one way that participants in this culture self-consciously distinguish themselves from the mainstream.

Male leather culture has existed since the late 1940s till the present day.

Come with me and where your leathers as I do 'With P'ride'.

Atmayra Art & Magic Boutique

Atmayra Art & Magic Boutique was born in the UK in 2021 when I, Ralu, the owner, took my first steps on my spiritual awakening journey. It was a moment of deep connection with the Universe and my first "best friend" on this journey was my art. The initial step was to put a name on all the "odd feelings" and the realistic dreams I've had all my life.

I realised then I'm a highly intuitive empath - I feel energy and vibrations around me and the only way to translate them was initially through my art.

However, I have always felt like I was meant to do more and help others on this journey as well, so I thought that my art can become part of people's homes and lives and help them reach their Higher Self - the best possible version of themselves.

I truly feel that art (in all its forms and with no judgement) is magical in supporting healing your inner child, so that you can become a peaceful and happy adult.

erzy Kosinski once said "The principle of true art is not to portray, but to evoke", so although a significant part of my art is formed by portraits (both human and pets), I'm focusing on evoking feelings using different techniques and an eclectic style.

Once I started to look further into spiritual tools, read more about energy, vibrations and the laws of the Universe, I fell in love with crystals (and their infinite energy) and became a Reiki practitioner.

I wanted to share the Universal healing energy with those around me, as I could literally feel people's pain and sorrows - it's like wanting to give humankind a massive hug.

This is how our YouTube channel was born - I create meditation and healing frequency music that is Reiki charged with different intents.

Music is a form of art as well and music frequency has been known since ancient times to have deeply calming and soothing effects.

Please visit our channel to listen to our Reiki charged sounds and let us know the effect they have on you.

While a spiritual awakening is turning one towards themselves for healing and deep connection, I constantly felt the need to share this with the world around me - share the healing and the love.

These feelings led me to create Atmayra Art & Magic Boutique which, although eclectic in style, aims to become a one stop shop to aid our audience on their spiritual journey - art to evoke those inner feelings; crystals and incense to help you heal, stay grounded and connect with the Universe; jewellery so you can keep those protecting crystals close to you and journals to support shadow work.

A journey of healing would be nothing without acceptance and shining one's true self, which meant coming out as part of the LGBTQ+ community and becoming a even stronger supporter. I try to include this into our intuitive art collection and nothing would make me happier than to have the chance to portray and evoke love in all its forms and shapes.

In the words of the much beloved Maya Angelou, I feel like "my mission in life is not merely to survive, but to thrive, and to do so with some passion, some compassion, some humour and some style"
- all these can be found in both our products and our brand.

ADULT STORE FOR GOOD TIMES

That is a policy we will stand by, no matter how big we grow.

Through sheer hard work and determination, in just one year we launched our own venue in Liverpool and created 27 satellite events across the UK. We're in the process of purchasing two more venues too.

"25 of the 27 venues were non-LGBT and this has created new safe spaces for the LGBTQI+ communities including vulnerable women, across the country".

"Alongside creating safe spaces for the LGBTQI+ community, another of our goals is to ensure every queen has an opportunity to perform and earn a living through drag.

"Our concept makes it affordable for venues to pay queens a fair wage and give them a commission incentive to earn more.

"Couple all of this with the world-class level of entertainment and comedy we provide at FunnyBoyz and I believe it's easy to see why our venues have become the best gay bars in various cities and our events are revered across the country."

As part of the offering at Linda Gold's FunnyBoyz, revellers - and particularly hen parties - can book professional drag performers to join them on a night out with performers leading them to bars while providing the entertainment and drinks to set off any wild celebration.

And with venues spanning from Aberdeen to Margate and Helsinki to Benidorm, wherever you are it's unlikely that unbeatable fun at Linda Gold's FunnyBoyz venue will be too far away.

Drag performer Dys Alexia, who also co-runs Linda Gold's FunnyBoyz, added: "Our venues are included as some of the best safe spots in the country for everyone, including the LGBTQI+ community, and that is true testament to the hard work we have put in to make this a success.

During lockdown Linda spent her life savings to keep the business alive, pay staff and make sure people had a safe space to return once venues reopened.

It just gave everyone working here the extra drive to make sure every time someone walked through the doors of our venue they had the best time possible.

The fashion, flawless makeup, comedy routines and all-round silliness with unbelievably fun games we bring to each event only adds to the all-round enjoyment.

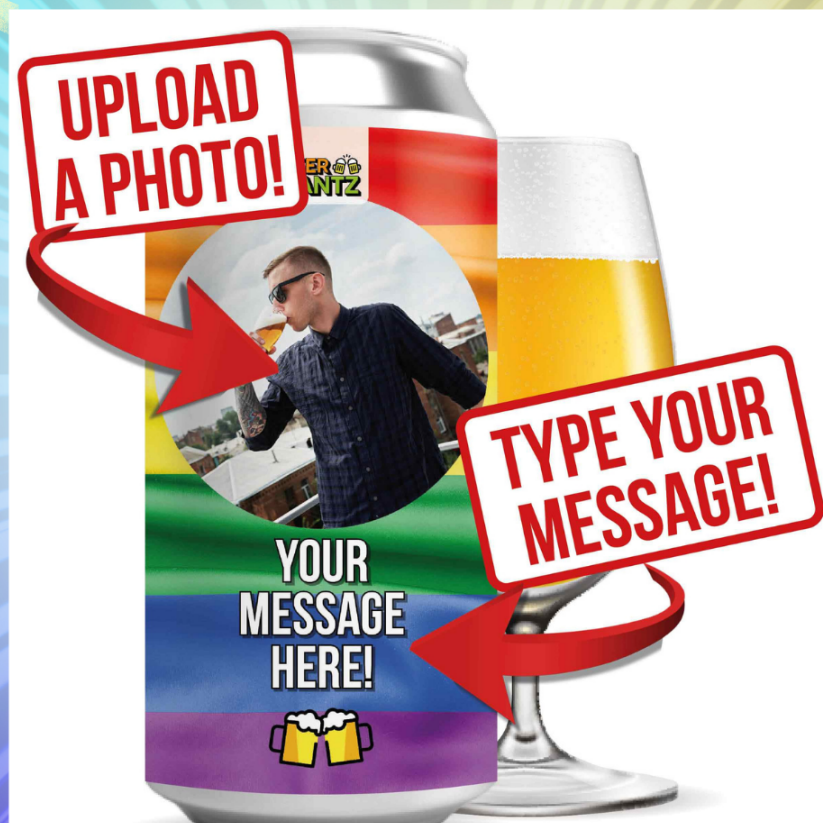

It has not been easy, of course, and often results in us working round the clock but we will strive to continue keeping up these standards to make sure anyone coming to play at Linda Gold's FunnyBoyz is left with memories lasting a lifetime.

For a full list of FunnyBoyz venues please go to our website.

THIS IS ME

BY

RICHARD BERD

Hi, Here is my Coming Out story. I am sorry if some of it is inappropriate, it's just that I am being honest.

I have autism and I often am unaware of how this can be interpreted by others.

My name is Richard Berd, I live in Manchester, and I'm 47 years of age and I'm Gay and Jewish, I also have gender dysphoria. I love watching garden birds and writing poems, walking, swimming and art.

I knew I was gay when I was about six years of age. I think it was April 1981 and I really felt attracted to Mike Nolan in Bucks Fizz when they won Eurovision.

I felt like I wanted to be with him. I kept the feelings to myself for a while as I felt shame and guilt, I felt like nobody around me had feelings for their own sex.

When boys used to say that they fancied women I became confused as to why I didn't, as well as why nobody said that they fancied men?

I then had a big crush on Christopher Reeve who played Superman in Superman 2 when I saw the film in the cinema in about 1981. I wrote stories about having romantic nights with him and told my mum and she was smiling.

As I grew older and started high school, I was bullied verbally virtually every day, I was called names and pupils asked, "why are you so pale?". "why do you have black bags under your eyes?".

I felt very different physically from other boys and the bullying caused me to not know what to think of myself, and I thought of myself like an animal, but I felt very different from the other boys and felt like they were like different creatures to me.

In Autumn 1991 I started becoming very anxious at school because I was doing badly in my A Levels and I felt very stressed and I really felt like I wanted to explore other pupils' clothes and bodies.

I used to deny my gay feelings by saying to my self that I fancied men who I wanted to become like instead of realising that I fancied men because they were like a different sex to me and that I could never become like them. I told a friend in July 1992 that I was gay. I felt very anxious for a few days afterwards as it was the first time I had ever told anyone including myself!

I had a big crush on a schoolboy who was a year older than me and who had left that summer. When I went back to school for my last year I felt obsessed with a boy a year younger than me (I was 17, he was 16) and I loved going to school and admiring him from afar and I loved those days and I was distraught when I left school in May 1993 knowing I wouldn't see him every day any more.

I have a sexual kink for men's underwear, but it causes redundant sexual lusts that never have a chance to be expressed with anyone, this has caused serious depression over the years. I have never had a partner and feel so isolated as a gay man, my gender dysphoria means I can't bear to think of myself as male. I'm looking for counselling for my sexual kink and just wish that I had friends to talk to. After having two nervous breakdowns I worry very much about the future and hope that there will always be help and support for LGBTQI people. By Richard Berd

GARDENING WITH GOODFELLOW

July

Click on any photo to be taken to the very friendly Facebook group :

Gay Gardener UK, Plants, Seeds and Surplus Exchange Group.

"FWP does not own or run this group or control it's content in any way".

The height of summer and you will hit those heights by having to undertake lots of watering and feeding but you will be rewarded many times over with fantastic flowers and tasty veg.

As your Dahlias start to flower don't be afraid to cut them for indoor display, it will actually promote the plant to produce more flowers. If you don't cut them then dead head them for the same reason. You will need to stake the taller varieties to stop them getting blown over.

Don't forget to look after your tomatoes, keep them well ventilated in the greenhouse. Don't let the temperature rise too high else you can get sun scald on the fruits. Opening the greenhouse door and roof vent and spraying water on the floor will cool the temperature. Feed them once a week and water daily – they prefer to be watered less but more often. If you forget and then give them lots of water, the fruits will probably split as the sudden take-up of water makes the fruit expand but the skin can't stretch and splits.

Don't forget to remove the side shoots on tomatoes – the shoots between the leaf and the stem as these will just make the plant bush instead of making fruit – be careful not to remove flowers as these are your tomatoes in waiting.

Stargazer Lilies reaching Skywards

Arum Lilies will reward your efforts with a range of colours and variegated leaves and will keep flowering for the rest of summer.

Dead head roses and give them a feed to keep them free flowering and strong – mulch the base to help with weeds and water retention.

Keep on top of the weeding, use a hoe in between rows of vegetables, it gets the weeds but also helps aerate the soil and stop it capping when it rains so it's true you can be a hoe until your hearts content! Oh sorry I meant use a hoe.

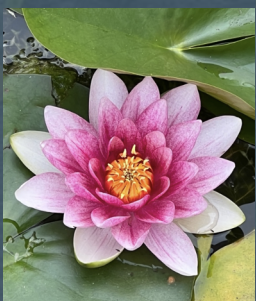

If you want to keep your green lawn you will need to keep up the watering, cutting less frequently will help but don't let it get too long and then cut it short, that will just give you a yellow or brown lawn.

You can take softwood cuttings from lots of shrubs now the fast growth means the cuttings will root quickly. It's very satisfying and you get free plants – you can always swap with someone so a great way of breaking the ice in a conversation. You can plant autumn bulbs both in pots and borders to give some prolonged colour to your garden.

Keep a close eye for garden pests and pick off when spotted but learn which are the good guys and which are the bad ones. A general rule of thumb is if they move fast, they are a predator and so should be a friend to you and your plants. Slugs and snails can be a major pest but birds and hedgehogs love to eat them so encourage them into your garden as natural slug killers.

Remove flowers from Coleus plants – this will promote new colourful growth which is what you want.

You can still sow fast growing salad leaves like various lettuce varieties and these can run right into the autumn and beyond depending on the variety.

Pond lilies will look good and produce impressive flowers with little effort from you so long as they get enough sun.

BEER BANTZ

Everyone loves a bit of banter, don't they? I mean, if you can't insult your friends with inappropriate humour, are you even really friends?! BeerBantz.com was born out of just those kind of banter exchanges that form part of a special bond between people.

By combining the banter with beer, they've come up with the perfect gift that delivers a healthy dose of banter followed up with a delicious beer because it's all too often when we're socialising with our friends and loved ones that the banter level kicks up a notch.

BeerBantz.com is the brainchild of Epic Beers Limited – a microbrewery based in Weston-Super-Mare who produce stunningly high-quality beers enjoyed by beer lovers in pubs and at home up and down the country. Combining the canned craft beers, they produce with web-based personalisation functionality and print-on-demand- functionality, they've come up with the UK very first online marketplace for novelty and personalised beer gifts. What's more, with Dave Turner, the managing Director of the company being a proud member of our colourful community, he was keen to ensure adequate representation across the board.

“Banter is entirely inclusive and those closest to us are the ones who can insult us the most but without actually insulting us – it's a unique form of love” says Dave, and from looking at their LGBT range of beer gifts, you can see what he means.

"Happy Birthday Gay Boy!", "Happy Pride Bitches!" and "I love You, Now Let's Scissor!" adorn cans of craft beer that cement the love between two close people whether they're friends, family or lovers.

BeerBantz.com features a range of standard designs, but if you want to go to another level or have your own unique "bantz" with someone, there's even an LGBT personalised product available. Dave tells us, "you can upload a photo of your choice and type in your unique, special message, something that bonds you and the recipient, then you can specify the background you want to give it" – which after checking it out we can see are various flags, you can choose from Pride, Progress, Lesbian, Bisexual and Trans flags meaning you can tailor the can label to precisely what works for you and the person you're buying it for.

Once you've finalised your design, pop it in to your basket, checkout and within a day or two, your unique craft beer gift lands on your doorstep. Now, whilst the humour may be right up there, don't think that the beer won't stack up, because it does – it's all genuine, high quality craft beer made using the finest ingredients by an award-winning micro-brewery.

So next time you're looking for something different and truly unique to convey precisely the kind of message you want to get across to a friend or loved one, check out BeerBantz.com – but be warned, some of the humour on there is strictly 18+ but it is funny as f**k!

Esmale.com, the pleasure products delivery service.

Hello, we are www.esmale.com and would like to say hi to all Forever with Pride readers. We have been big fans of the magazine and thought it was time we supported the magazine and introduce ourselves.

A little about us.

We are an adult store and have been around for over a decade. What started as a store that mainly focused on gay sex toys has evolved into a full-blown lifestyle store with customers from all areas of the LGBTQI community and offering a lot more than just pleasure tools. We now also have huge BDSM, Fetish, Fashion, Essentials, and adult novelty collections. Even though historically we positioned ourselves as a gay store, our customers base is very diverse.

We love a bit of self-love!

The journey to where we are now has like any business had its ups and downs, but it has always been our amazing customers that made the difference. It has been great to see how the purchase of something simple like a Fleshjack can increase someone's fun time.

A large part of our ethos is encouraging people to explore their body and find out what it likes and dislikes. The relief that some good selflove can provide to your body and mind is more than some might think. We have realised that for some this concept is a little strange. The idea to take some time out from the daily grind and take yourself to your bedroom or other space to fully connect with your body feels alien to some. To be honest, I felt the same at the beginning and the first few times I was not comfortable enough to really make the most of it. I could not relax into it. Now however I am looking forward to these moments.

Partner play.We are all about self-love but are fully aware that certain elements of adult play can't be replicated. Sure, you can create intimacy with yourself and that is great. However, partner play offers the extra dimension of an additional connection that can be made by another person and a lot of satisfaction can be taken from that. Eye to eye, body to body and the general experience of someone else enjoying your body is unfortunately not something we can sell in our store.

Fleshjack

What can work is to bring some of the tools you enjoy into partner play. Even though it should not be, some people find it hard to bring up certain things they like and do not like. Through feedback we have learned that some find it embarrassing to admit that they enjoy certain things. These self-conscious thoughts are totally understandable, but we have come to realise that most time these conversations result in a more open play situation. Often the play partner will also add some things might add to the action and satisfaction. You might even be introduced to things you enjoy but never thought of. Face your fear and do it anyway seems an appropriate saying here. As long as full consent is given by all involved you should hopefully be in for a good time.

Be prepared.

Before any type of play a bit of preparation goes a long way. For example, if you are using something from our anal toys for men range, we would recommend you have a douche and also ensure you use a good lube. Using a quality lube can really make a difference in terms of comfort.

There are many products that help in the enjoyment of play, and we are talking about more than a bottle of poppers which for many people enhances adult experiences.

Addicted Underwear

There are so many other elements to exploring your body that if we would go through them here it will fill the whole magazine so we will leave it here for now. We will be back for more and if you have any questions or would like us to feature certain things, please go to our website for all our contact details. At esmale we have a great bunch of people happy to help with getting a big smile on your face.

With Love

Team esmale.
